

Contributors

Nakia Hill

Nakia is a broadcast journalism major at Howard University. After graduating from college, Nakia wants to be a MTV VJ and write for hip-hop and fashion magazines. She also wants to teach at inner-city high schools.

Michael Stanley

Michael is a staff writer for the North Carolina A&T Register, contributing most of his work in the sports section. After graduation he wants to write for a major sports magazine or work at a well-known public relations firm before attending law school.

Vermeka Lang

Vermeka was born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland. She currently attends North Carolina A&T where she's studying business administration with a concentration in marketing.

Jordan Colbert

Jordan is a senior at Howard University. In 2002, she interned for the Exposure Group where she was on the team that organized Gordon Parks' 90th birthday tribute. In 2004, Jordan studied abroad in Cape Town, South Africa.

Charlene Drayton

Charlene is a public relations major at Howard University. She aspires to become an executive at a public relations firm and freelance for popular fashion magazines.

Don Brodie

Don started shooting after his second trip to Europe in 2002. He loves the mob classics like Goodfellas, comedies like Life Aquatic, and music from Hendrix, Bjork, and Snoop. Don finds inspiration in his family, and from the works of photographer Helmut Newton.

Kevono Hunt

Kevono Hunt attends Langston University and serves as the managing and online editor of the LU Gazette. Kevono serves as Chair of Communications for LIFE AIDS.

Makebra Anderson

Makebra is a Howard University graduate with a passion for writing. She is committed to writing about the impact of HIV/AIDS on the Black community and has helped raise awareness on the issue among people of color.

Have a passion for journalism? Want to make a difference? Try your hand at writing about issues that matter—contribute to LEDGE. If you're interested, hit us at writers@ledgemagazine.com.