

Christopher Darren Cathcart
Founder, OneDiaspora Group

Christopher Darren Cathcart is a respected author, communications strategist, and dynamic public speaker with over 30 years of experience shaping narratives at the highest levels of media and entertainment. He has held senior roles at iconic organizations, including CNN, Warner Bros. Television, and Motown Records, where he helped define brand messaging and public engagement strategies.

A passionate educator, Chris teaches communications and journalism at California State University, Northridge, Syracuse University, and UCLA Extension. A proud Howard University alumnus, he is also a leading voice in championing Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs). The Plainfield, New Jersey native is also co-editor of HBCU Experience – The Book, an acclaimed collection of essays celebrating the legacy and impact of Black college life. Its sister project, HBCU Experience – The Podcast, was launched in Fall 2026.